HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging
Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave
Up in Despair. Husband
Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Seven Keys TO Baldpate

By
EARL DERR BIGGERS

Copyright, 1913, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Yes, that's a pretty swell place," said the ticket agent. "But it ain't open now. It's a summer resort. There ain't no place open now, but the Commercial House. And I wouldn't recommend no human being there—especially no lady who was sad before she ever saw it."

Mr. Magee explained to the incongruous family pair waiting on the bench.

"There's only one hotel," he said, "and I'm told it's not exactly the place for any one whose outlook on life is not rosy at the moment. I'm sorry."

"It will do very well," answered the girl, "whatever it is." She smiled at Billy Magee. "My outlook on life is Upper Asquewan Falls," she said. "grows rozier every minute. We must find a cab."

She began to gather up her traveling bags, and Mr. Magee hastened to assist. The three went out on the station platform, upon which lay a thin carpet of snowflakes. There the older woman, in a harsh, rasping voice, found fault with Upper Asquewan Falls—its geography, its public spirit, its brand of weather. A dejected cab at the end of the platform stood mourning its lonely lot. In it Mr. Magee placed the large lady and the bags. Then, while the driver climbed to his seat he spoke into the invisible ear of the girl.

"You haven't told me why you cried," he reminded her.

"Upper Asquewan Falls," she said. "Isn't it reason enough?"

Billy Magee looked: saw a row of gloomy buildings that seemed to rise as the wind blew, a blurred sign "Liquor and Cigars," a street that staggered away into the dark like a man who had lingered too long at the emporium back of the sign.

"Are you doomed to stay here long?" he asked.

"Come on, Mary," cried a deep voice from the cab. "Get in and shut the door. I'm freezing."

"It all depends," said the girl. "Thank you for being so kind and good night."

The door closed with a muffled bang the cab creaked wearily away and Mr. Magee turned back to the dim waiting room.

"Well, what was she crying for?" inquired the ticket agent when Mr. Magee stood again at his cell window. "She didn't think much of your town," responded Magee. "She intimated that it made her heavy of heart."

"Hm! It ain't much of a place," admitted the man, "though it ain't the general rule with visitors to burst into tears at sight of it. Yes, Upper Asquewan is slow, and no mistake. It gets on my nerves sometimes. Nothing to do but work, work, work, and then lay down and wait for tomorrow. I used to think maybe some day they'd transfer me down to Hooperstown—there's moving pictures and such goings on down there. But the railroad never notices you—unless you go wrong. Yes, sir; sometimes I want to clear out of this town myself."

"A natural wanderlust," sympathized Mr. Magee. "You said something just now about Baldpate inn?"

"Yes; it's a little more lively in summer, when that's open," answered the agent. "We get a lot of complaints about trunks not coming from pretty swell people too. It sort of cheers things." His eye roamed with interest over Mr. Magee's New York attire. "But Baldpate inn is shut up tight now. This is nothing but an annex to a graveyard in winter. You wasn't thinking of stopping off here, was you?"

"Well, I want to see a man named Elijah Quimby," Mr. Magee replied. "Do you know him?"

"Of course," said the yearner for pastures new. "He's caretaker of the inn. His house is about a mile out on the old Miller road that leads up Baldpate. Come outside and I'll tell you how to get there."

The two men went out into the whirling snow, and the agent waved a hand indefinitely up at the night. "If it was clear," he said, "you could see Baldpate mountain over yonder looking down on the falls, sort of keeping an eye on us to make sure we don't get reckless. And halfway up you'd see Baldpate inn, black and peaceful and wintry. Just follow this street to the third corner and turn to your left. Elijah lives in a little house back among the trees a mile out. There's a gate you'll sure hear creaking on a night like this."

Billy Magee thanked him and, gathering up his two bags, walked up Main street. A dreary, forbidding building at the first corner bore the sign "Commercial House."

Weep no more, my lady. Oh, weep no more today! hummed Mr. Magee cynically under his breath and glanced up at the solitary upstairs window that gleamed yellow in the night.

REEVES NAMED

As the New Postmaster in the Town of Bethany in This State.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—Walter E. Reeves has been appointed postmaster at Bethany, Brooke county, W. Va., succeeding Edward Scott, resigned. Bethany is a fourth class postoffice and the appointment follows the taking of a civil service examination. As soon as his commission is signed and his bond is given and approved Mr. Reeves will assume charge of the office.

HIGH RATES

For Natural Gas Are Likely to Be Charged in Two Neighboring States.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 26.—If consumers in West Virginia win their battle for a lower gas rate, it is possible that consumers living in western Pennsylvania and Ohio may have to pay a higher rate for their gas supply. The public service commission of West Virginia threatens to lower the rate in this state and in case that is done it is possible that Pittsburgh consumers will have to pay the difference.

The Manufacturers Light & Heat Company officials have appeared before the commission in West Virginia and stated that the cost of production was such that the company could not afford to lower its rates.

DROPS DEAD.

FAIRMONT, Feb. 26.—Abner Brown, aged 71 years, dropped dead at his home in Union district. He came in out of the extreme cold from the barn after doing some chores and standing before the fire complained of a pain in his heart and fell dead. He leaves his second wife and several children. His funeral will be held Friday morning.

APPEALS TO WILSON.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Senator Thompson, of Kansas, appealed to President Wilson today to reverse the recent dismissal of the V. L. McClure of Iowa, Kan., from the naval academy. The president promised consideration. McClure was dismissed for "gouging" in examination.

HANGS HIMSELF.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
PITTSBURG, Feb. 26.—William W. Ularich, a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, hanged himself in a sanatorium here today. He was formerly superintendent of the La Roche, Pa., public school and was widely known as an educator.

MINER'S BACK BROKEN.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 26.—Frank Zlazzski, a miner from Monongah, was brought to the Miners' hospital last night with a broken back. He was hurt by a fall of slate. Luthy Teery, an American miner from Monongah, was admitted with severe injuries.

What is said to be the largest tree trunk in the world, measuring 147 feet in girth, is at Mixla, Mexico.
